

MAAM WATER RESERVE

OPEN DAY

Sat 6 Dec, 10.30am

(500m E along Dry Lake Rd, Allansford)

Maam Reserve is a small, 7 Ha 'blink and you'll miss it' wetland on the outskirts of Warrnambool, yet it holds an amazing 111 species of native plants with 44 of these significant, threatened or rare.

Come along to the open day to have a flora ramble with local experts and hear about the rare plants found at this important refuge. Short talks by 'Plants of the Great South West' author Kevin Sparrow and DEPI Biodiversity Officer David Pitts.

Morning tea provided

Wear long trousers and bring gumboots. For more details or to register, contact Jonathan Tuck from NGT at jonathan.tuck@natureglenelg.org.au or call 0402 6633 63

