

A DOLLOP OF HISTORY WITH TEA AND SCONES

A knock out event called the Narrawong History and Local Author Forum is coming up this Sunday 25th June 2017, at the Narrawong Mechanics Institute Hall. As part of this forum, dark tales about William Dutton, one of the first settlers in the region and now resident of the Narrawong Cemetery, will be revealed.

This unique and free event is presented as part of the Narrawong Kang-o-meerteek Small Town Transformation project in partnership with Glenelg Libraries. A local history panel including Damein Bell, Wal Saunders and Bernard Wallace will start the day, followed by presentations from outstanding local authors Ben Langdon, Annie Lanyon and Tony Wright.

REGIONAL ARTS VICTORIA SMALL TOWN TRANSFORMATIONS | VICTORIA State Government | explore connect Glenelg Libraries

A fantastic turnout for the Reconciliation event presented by Cre8ive Narrawong, on the 26th of May, 2017. Thanks to Deb and Wal Saunders and volunteers for organising this sterling occasion. Many of the forty guests, such as Dianne and Adelle from the Oasis Rainbow Small Town Transformations, made paintings whilst listening to the sultry tones of Andy Alberts. The Narrawong Mechanics Institute Hall had a very relaxed and inclusive vibe. There were lots of smiles all-round. Photos by Goodman Photography.

In our next edition created by Alanna Myers, the new communications specialist for the project, we will be detailing the progress of the Mt Clay Sculpture.

Below is a photo of the latest model of the Mt Clay sculpture. This model will be on display at the Narrawong Mechanics Institute Hall whilst the South West Alternative Medium Project conduct their Winter Art Exhibition of local Indigenous Artists from the 3-12 July 2017. Open 10am to 4pm. Please drop in and check out the beautiful art works and give some feedback on the model.
